but only if you get a chance to live it. Abortion takes away the right to life of another human being.

Saying the life of a child is simply a matter of choice is an easy way to justify the killing. It's an old tactic; throughout history we've dehumanised others to gain a benefit for ourselves.

That's the kind of thinking that supported slavery and apartheid. It's the kind of twisted philosophy that dehumanised Jews, the Irish and Native Americans. This same mentality offers abortion as a solution to a problem.

Abortion cannot be a humane solution to any crisis pregnancy. A society that kills a baby instead of finding an answer has failed women and children.

Years ago, we were assured that abortion was a cure for child abuse, domestic violence, poverty, divorce and almost every other social problem we had. Somehow killing babies was going to set people free, and would guarantee equality. So, tell me, how many children have to die before this plan starts working?

Ultrasound believes that a humane society works to protect mothers and babies. Our aim is to show the truth about abortion to as many people as possible.
